

Because we live in a world where sidewalks end and the best views are at the top of the hill

Give your patients everything they need to enjoy everyday life.

Endolite has the only full range of hydraulic ankle/feet for low to moderate activity levels. Each combination has unique features to provide the amputee with balance control- from automatically aligning to the terrain to reducing high level stresses encountered on inclines and declines. This leads to increased patient confidence making for a safe and comfortable return to normal, daily activities.
